

For Immediate Release | Feb. 20, 2017

Penticton Regional Hospital – public parking during construction

PENTICTON – With construction activity underway for the new patient care tower at Penticton Regional Hospital, visitors are reminded of the changes in public parking locations.

Extensive planning has been completed to ensure easy access continues for patients and visitors to the hospital, and Interior Health would like to thank the public for its continued patience as this project moves forward. A map detailing public parking areas and entrances has been created for users, and is also available, along with project details, on the Building Patient Care website.

The public can be assured that during all phases of construction, a minimum amount of parking stalls will be available. Once the Patient Care Tower project is finished, the site will benefit from an additional 246 parking stalls.